Interesting article that brings a necessary discussion about the extraction of the coconut flower.

Improve the sentence construction of line 2 of the article: accounting for 50% of the country's total area. Does the coconut cultivation area really occupy this area of the country? Or does coconut cultivation in Bến Tre account for 50% of coconut cultivation in the country? Join Figure 2 with box 1, you could list the photo, explaining each step of the Coconut flower collection process One of his suggestions at the conclusion is the diversification of coconut cultivation. How would you do that?
