The research is interesting but needs to be improved:

- The originality of the Paper needs to be clarified,
- The term "comfort" is mentioned several times in the study. However, to study thermal comfort, specific parameters need to be taken into consideration.
- The summary needs to be improved.
- The introduction includes a good but limited sample of the literature.
- The methodologies used in the manuscript should be clearly described.
- The conclusion should be revised.
- References can be updated to cite more recent research.
- The language is generally acceptable, but requires major revision.
