

Review of: "Human Rights Aspects in Infrastructure Projects in the President Regulation Number 120 Year 2022"

Yi Ying<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Binus University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The abstract section is too brief, lacking an explanation of the research background and objectives. Additionally, it does not include information about the research methods, research problems, and research conclusions.

Human rights, as stipulated in the Indonesian Constitution No. 39 of 1999, refer to Article 5, paragraph (1), Article 20, paragraph (1), Article 26, Article 27, Article 28, Article 30, Article 31, Article 32, Article 33, paragraph (1), and paragraph (3), and Article 34 of the 1945 Constitution. This information needs to be included in the introduction section.

Research should present field data, which can be in the form of articles from online newspapers or news from reliable websites, or previous research on the implementation of Infrastructure Projects in President Regulation Number 120 of 2022 concerning human rights. This way, the study should not only review regulations but also highlight their tangible impact on human rights. Consequently, the research findings would be more beneficial for readers and other researchers interested in further investigation.