It was a pleasure reviewing the paper. Firstly, I would like to appreciate the researchers who put their effort for the manuscript, and I congratulate them for making it done. After going through and navigating through the paper, I have found that the paper needs a few things to make it a better one.

1- The most important thing is that the references must be recent which makes a research publication valid as in this fast-paced era quoting obsolete references questions the viability of the research.

2- The literature of the paper needs to be clearer and in detail but in this paper, introduction seems to be more focused than the literature review.

3- There must be some more effort to make the problem statement clearer and more evident as the current statement is technically weak and vague as well.

4- The grammatical and sentence structure of the paper needs due attention as a better structure and sequence attracts the readers.

Summing it up, the paper needs considerable revisions to make it a good fit for impact factor acceptance, I truly appreciate the efforts of the researchers and wish them good luck for their future endeavours.

Best,
