

Review of: "Measuring researchers' success more fairly: going beyond the H-index"

Kailash Garg<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> National Institute of Science, Technology And Development Studies (CSIR-NISTAD)

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I have read the article with interest and it is well written. There are a number of bibliometric indicators but only few of them like h-index or journal impact factor are most used. These have their own limitations. In my opinion adding one more indicator will not serve any useful purpose.