

Review of: "Climate Change and Sustainability: A Comparative Case Study"

Sourabh Kumar

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Climate Change and Sustainability is a fascinating article. It provides a holistic approach to Sweden and India. As a renowned effort by Sweden, India can learn much from Sweden and be net zero by the end of 2070. The research manuscript highlights essential facts about climate and sustainability. However, some changes are required for the final draft. Such as 1. Precise the abstract, clear, and easy to understand. 2. although a lot of information is provided in the introduction section, references are missing; please try to incorporate them. 3. it would be good if the author added the literature review section in the manuscript, as a lot of work is going on in the climate and sustainability areas.