

Review of: "Reforesting_now"

Jose Roberto Ribas¹

¹ Universidade Federal do Rio de Janeiro

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The subject presented by the authors is interesting and relevant, however it was written in a journalistic format. In order for it to be published in an academic journal, it must be written again and resubmitted to be reviewed.

Include the following sessions: 1) literature background - containing a review of the published articles that contain approaches similar to the researched subject; 2) Methodology - the authors will be able to present in greater detail the technique proposed in this article; 3) Research area - geographically position and briefly describe the Amazon region and in greater detail the Marabá region; 4) Results and discussions- present the results obtained in the research area with the use of the proposed methodology, discuss relevant points, compare with other types of techniques; 5) Conclusion - emphasize the points and key results obtained and propose expansions of the work, as well as the application by other sectors; 6) Bibliography- should be extensive and relevant, containing publications of the Web of Science mainly.