The review is found to be interesting. However, I request the author to make minor changes. All the drugs mentioned in the article are not mentally affecting the geriatric patients, and in many cases, they need to be prescribed psychotropic drugs for more benefits; hence, it is important to consider the risk-benefit analysis while prescribing. The author is requested to add the lethal doses for all the drugs mentioned to make it clear at what doses these drugs are causing toxic effects in geriatric patients.
