

Review of: "The Born Rule is a Feature of Superposition"

S. Sule Sener Kiliç¹

¹ Atatürk University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

In my view, the title has a convenient way of presenting its content. The layout of the article is well organized. The figures are illustrative and suitable for readers. Moreover, the authors are going to contribute to those studying in the field. But for a better reading and understanding of the article, the authors should answer the following questions. In the introduction part of the study, studies in the literature should be mentioned, and what difference is tried to be achieved with this study should be determined. Quantum mechanics and probability situations should be detailed a little more. In the conclusion section, the different outcome of the study from other studies should be emphasized. It could be a nice work if the original part is clarified.