Summary

The abstract should provide the reader with a general idea of the article. Relevant information that the abstract should include:

- Brief introduction and theoretical framework
- Goals
- Methodology used.
- Main results and/or conclusions reached

Theoretical framework and methodology.

Both the theoretical framework and the methodology are adequate for the work carried out and constitute the basis of the article.

Discussion and Conclusions.

This is a fully theoretical article. Would it be possible for the author to separate the discussion and the conclusions into two different sections? It is not clear from the text presented which part the author of the study deduces from it and which part constitutes his own conclusions reached.

Figures and Tables.

Would it be possible to improve the quality of the presentation of the figures from 0 to 2?

References

- Review and adjust the format of the references to the chosen citation style (APA), not all the references follow the established norms.
- There is an excess of self-citations by the author. Can you make a better justification for them?
