

Review of: "How many papers are published each week reporting on trials of interventions involving behavioural aspects of health?"

Koel Roychowdhury

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper presents an interesting area of research and provides good information on it. However, some of the weaknesses include:

1. This is a very short paper.
2. The introduction lacks background and motivation of the work.
3. Other databases such as scopus could have been included.
4. Methodology can be improved by using some bibliometric tools for indepth analyses.
5. A proper discussion and conclusion is lacking in the paper.