

Review of: "Climate Change and Sustainability: A Comparative Case Study"

Giacomo Pierucci¹

¹ University of Florence

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper deals briefly with the topic of sustainability comparing very different context from what concerning geographical, historical, political, cultural and technical issues.

Even supposing that a comparison is possible, the description of the various sub-topics lacks objective references (such as specific regulations, future targets, energy need trends and availability of the sources) so that the conclusions are not evaluable with a relevant significance. Please, try to improve your data in order to power your thesis.