

Review of: "Assessment of Learner Satisfaction in Secondary School Education"

John Ekow Mbir Amoah¹

¹ University of Education, Winneba

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

- The abstract is an adequate statement of the paper.
- Introduction was brief and well-articulated.
- The purpose of the study was relevant to the study.
- There should have been a brief statement of the problem leading to the study, this was not captured.
- Although there is a write up on the conceptual framework there were no diagrams to ascertain the dependent and independent variables of the study.
- Research design should duly address the status quo and nothing else. I was not expecting the study area and sampling to be incorporated into the research design.
- Data analysis and results were effectively done.
- Discussions were correlated to the thematic objectives in this study.
- Conclusions and recommendations contribute to knowledge.
- References are duly cited and well cited in the paper.