I appreciate the subject and the statistical analyses but I have the following comments and suggestions:

1- Overall, the paper is very important and has the potential to publish. The paper is econometrically well presented. It is crucial to thoroughly proofread the entire paper.

2-In the final section you should provide not only basic econometric conclusions. but it is necessary to write the economic implications, as well as limitations, future directions etc. The Discussion of the results is very limited. You should have a more in-depth approach including how your findings fit the extant literature or challenge it.

3- The conclusion should include the mains idea and findings interpretation and their economic explanation. It must be rewrite and explained clearly.

4- The research limitations should be stated clearly.

So, adapt these notes to suit your paper
