

Review of: "[Short Communication] Immunology of a Morbillivirus: Measles 1954 to 2023"

Mauro Sebastian Pedranti

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article now provides a detailed description of the immune response during measles infection, addressing various cellular and immunological aspects. The reading is enjoyable and there is enough data to reach some depth. My correction was focused on the paragraph that talked about eradication - elimination but it has already been amended. Otherwise it is an informative text with good quality of information.