

Peer Review

Review of: "The Vicarage Iconoclast: Whitehead, Leibniz, Relativity, and the Quantum"

Hany Akeel Al-hussaniy¹

1. University of Baghdad, Iraq

Excessive Length and Density

The manuscript is extremely long and conceptually dense.

Arguments are sometimes repeated.

Several discussions diverge into extended side debates.

The main thesis occasionally becomes difficult to follow.

 The dialogue format, while innovative, sometimes obscures:

Central argumentative trajectory

Logical progression between sections

Key conclusions emerging from discussions

Accessibility and Audience Consideration

The manuscript assumes extensive prior knowledge of:

Whiteheadian metaphysics

Philosophy of time

Advanced physics foundations

Include brief explanatory clarifications or conceptual summaries for interdisciplinary readers.

Declarations

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.