The article lacks novelty and has some major drawbacks regarding the literature framework developed. The authors are requested to rewrite the whole article by adding some innovative work to it and are thereby suggested to include some real-life examples which can be utilized to prove the given information in the article. To keep it short, the authors are suggested to work on the following points.

1. They must add a separate section for the literature review rather than clubbing it with the introduction section.
2. The authors are suggested to add a section showcasing the utility of the presented approach in real-life scenarios.
3. The authors must present the limitations of the undertaken study.
4. The authors are suggested to re-write the article so that all of the grammatical errors can be erased.
