

Review of: "Sacred Plants and Their Miraculous or Healing Properties"

Chadi Khatib

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This article is considered novel in its exploration of the therapeutic benefits of plants with miraculous healing abilities mentioned in ancient manuscripts. It provides intriguing information for researchers that can be relied upon to conduct further research and scientific studies to clinically prove the effectiveness of these plants. This is in order to harness them for the development of new plant-based medications that contribute to improving human health.