

Review of: "“Saving the Forest” with a REDD+ Project: Socio-Ecological Repercussions on Indigenous People in Cambodia"

Mohd Kher Hussein<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Universiti Putra Malaysia

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Overall, the study is interesting when it deals with forest conservation and protecting the indigenous people. However, I have some comments for this paper as follows:

- i. Methodology - more details are needed on how the survey was conducted. How information was gathered with the villagers and protagonists?
- ii. Conclusion - needs to add some ideas on how to help the indigenous people survive when they are not allowed to exploit the forest products.