Review of: "A population-based model for rationing COVID-19 vaccine"

Syed Abbas

1 Indian Institute of Technology Mandi

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The aim of this article is to discuss the population based model for rationing COVID-19 vaccine. The result is based on data collected over the years. Overall, this article is useful and provides good information on the subject. I believe that the introduction section can be more refined and more references can be added in the reference section.