Thank you very much for providing me with this opportunity. I have already checked the other reviews of the experts posted before me. I will try not to repeat the comments already raised by the experts.

1. Objectives and findings are not linked.
2. Why was the ethnographic method chosen, and how were themes identified during the analysis process?
3. Need some details on how cultural and religious aspects influence familial reintegration, as mentioned in the introduction.
4. Need a detailed discussion of the psychological trauma faced by the substance users.
5. The findings mention both family rejection and lack of self-worth repeatedly, which could be streamlined for clarity.
