

Review of: "Covid-19 and Transitional Time Objects"

Simge Orhun¹

¹ Ozyegin University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The subject and the intentions of the paper is significant. However, a structure is needed in order to reflect the originality, the contribution to the field, the steps of the research and most importantly the method. As there are no parameters identified to validate the hypothesis, it gives the impression that the case studies are interpreted subjectively. Content analysis method supported with a structured or semi structured interviews may help. Besides there needs to be a validation for the outcomes to make it convincing.