

Review of: "Sharing Economy Practices in Changing Business Environment: Transaction Cost, Resource-Linking, and Hypercompetition Perspectives"

Nilna Muna

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

1. Abstract suggestion improvemnet:

- a. Research Objectives: Consider explicitly stating the specific research objectives in the abstract. This will provide readers with a more detailed understanding of what the study aims to achieve.
- b. Methodological : While the abstract mentions theoretical perspectives, adding a brief sentence about the methodology employed would enhance clarity. This could include the data collection methods and analytical approaches used in the study.
- c. Context: Given the dynamic nature of the business environment, consider adding a brief mention of the temporal scope of the study (e.g., the years covered) to provide context for readers.
- d. Impact Statement: Conclude the abstract with a sentence highlighting the broader implications of the study or its potential contribution to the field of business, entrepreneurship, or related disciplines.
- e. Avoid Redundancy: The abstract contains some repetition, such as the mention of "sharing economy practices" and "disruptors." Consider rephrasing to maintain conciseness while avoiding redundancy.

lastly, the abstract effectively communicates the core elements of the article but could benefit from a bit more detail regarding research objectives and methodology. Adding a concluding sentence about the broader impact would enhance the abstract's completeness.