

Review of: "Cloud Computing Paradigm in Academics"

Malavika E Santhosh¹

¹ University of Qatar

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Certainly, a good initiation was made by the authors in this digital era. Kindly find my suggestions for further improvement of the manuscript.

General comments:

- Authors should focus extensively on the structure and formatting of the manuscript. manuscript must include a structured format with more headings. (i.e., research questions, methodology, discussion, etc. as per the scope of the paper)
- Include study limitations.

Abstract:

- Should be more to the point.
- Follow a structured abstract format. (e.g., two lines on introduction to the topic, followed by present literature gap/rationale, your study methodology, key findings, and conclusion on a broader perspective).

Introduction:

- Use recent references.

Literature review:

- Repetition of the sentence. "For instance, the University Sains Malaysia's business section offers consulting, consultation, and testing services".
- The sentence is not complete. "For instance, the University Sains Malaysia's business section offers consulting, consultation, and testing services".
- Some statements regarding blended learning, mobile learning, etc., lack connections to the main topic of cloud computing in academics.

Conclusion:

- The conclusion must be improved. The abstract and conclusion are the gist of the paper. Kindly revise it extensively.

