This article describes how to interpret the AI loss function. The article can be improved with the suggestions below to make it more worthwhile:

1. References from recent years may be used in the article.
2. There are no discussions or outcomes in the article to support the interpretation.
3. The proposed work must be described, along with how novel it differs from the existing work.
4. The work's limitation must be stated
5. Conclusion could be improved to more clearly summarize all that was done, and future scope should be mentioned.
