In my opinion, except the following minor comments, the article is well done,

- Source should be mentioned for each table
- The descriptive statistics result of all constructs / variables should be presented in a single table rather than in a separate table, similarly the result of all demographic variables should be presented in a single table along with the appropriate source.
- In table 1, in addition to the conceptual definition of major variables, the operational definition should also be incorporated.
- Why you used PLS-SEM as data analysis techniques should be justified.
