Review of: "Driving Circular Innovation: From Business Model to Industrial Ecosystems"

I believe the main weakness of the research lies in its difficulty to clearly present the central narrative and the ultimate aim. From the very beginning, the research objective is not clearly defined, and in the conclusion, a series of questions is posed that remain unanswered despite the analysis conducted. Additionally, it is unclear how the authors arrived at the conclusions presented or what methodology was employed, further contributing to the disjointed nature of the paper and the absence of a cohesive thread to guide the reader effectively towards a clear conclusion.
