"Prednisolone-Induced Gingival Enlargement: A Rare Case Report" is a well-documented case report offering a rare adverse effect of a commonly used medication.

Some suggestions would be:

Drug-induced gingival overgrowth (DGIO) - DIGO

A more detailed dental and medical history of the patient would be better.

Scaling root planning - Scaling root planing

Combined (inflammatory + DIGE) gingival enlargement to be mentioned in diagnosis

Drug substitution for prednisolone? (Necessary or not?)

Differential diagnosis with other drug-induced cases

Best wishes.
