This article is quite interesting because it discusses something quite specific in Arabic verbs. However, there are some things that the author should note, such as:

(1) morphological and semantic analysis must be balanced, if we analyze the verb form based on morphological and semantic studies then the analysis of meaning must also be considered, such as componential analysis in meaning, analysis of meaning relations between one verb and another.

please check this article:

THE CATEGORY OF MEANING COMPONENTS IN ARABIC VERBS BEGINNING WITH THE LETTER BA: BINARY ANALYSIS | Gramatika: Jurnal Ilmiah Kebahasaan dan Kesastraan (kemdikbud.go.id)

2. verb analysis is inseparable from context; therefore, the researcher must consider why verb form VIII was chosen and used.
