The article is clear in its contents, however it lacks a theoretical framework after the introduction, in which various investigations carried out by other authors in relation to the subject studied here are cited. In addition, the discussion must be complemented since it is very brief, where you compare the results of your research with others previously developed. Then, make another section with the conclusions where you identify the findings of the investigation itself. The discussion and the conclusions can be combined into one, however, the writing must differentiate between one thing and the other.
