Thank you very much for the invitation. It deals with a topic of great relevance, such as health during pregnancy. This article provides a vision of the situation in your country, which is a precious contribution since the complications of pregnancy vary according to the characteristics of the population, socio-cultural, geographical influence, economy, and the country's health system.

As a suggestion, avoid personal comments. Each concept must be supported by bibliographical references. List the bibliographic references according to their appearance in the text. Check spelling and grammar.

Best regards,
