The paper is not well-written or organized. It is not mentioned clearly why and how the methods are used. Also, the results are not discussed and compared properly. The paper looks like a simple draft technical paper rather than a scientific paper.

After a small introduction and literature sections, the methods section is briefly explained. It is suggested to write more about the methods section with clearer details.

The literature section is weak as well. Only 9 references are cited within the paper. The dates of the references are changing between 2010 and 2024. More studies (at least two times more) should be cited among the related literature.

The results should be compared with other results in the papers published in the literature.
