I have read the Reviews of Expectation of Life at Birth by Sex and Area of Residence in India and Bigger States/UT's (2013-2017): A Review. Such a study holds the potential to make a valuable contribution to the literature. To that end, I have included one suggestion for revision because I would love not to repeat what others have already echoed.

Why 2013-2017? Explaining this would help readers appreciate the significance of the findings if the author were able to highlight the reason for choosing the 2013-2017 period in this review.
