

Review of: "Italian Position Paper (SIPMO-SICMF) on Medication-Related Osteonecrosis of the Jaw (MRONJ)"

Luis Eduardo Carneiro-Campos<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Universidade Federal Fluminense

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Dear Editor

I want to thank you for choosing my name for the peer review of the SIPMO/SICMF position paper.

It is an honor to contribute to this comprehensive study. Due to the multiple medical-dental factors related to osteonecrosis of the jaws and its ongoing controversies for treatment management and resolution, we encourage the publication of this article.

The study accomplished everything it set out to do.

I must confess that I was very pleased with the bold way the text was structured. Preliminarily it was not clear whether I was faced with a systematic review, an opinion article, or even a consensus. I suggest that it might be interesting to treat the text as a Consensus. Still, I insist that my opinion in no way implies a diminution of the work, which, as I mentioned, is excellent and a must-read for everyone working in orthopedic, maxillofacial, and neurosurgical surgery. I actively recommend that this study be widely disseminated and, if you find it interesting, it should be entitled as "2023 SIPMO/SICMF Consensus on Medication-Related Osteonecrosis of the Jaw (MRONJ)".

All the best!