- The topic of the manuscript has significant potential to contribute to knowledge; however, the work is very scanty in terms of volume, needs more details, and requires a lot of effort in this regard.
- The authors should give further details about the approach used, findings, and implications of the study in the abstract.
- The authors should show more ideas, experiences, or practices from related studies, including the pros and cons, challenges, and gaps in using these tools.
- In the methodology part, more clarification is required, at least to identify the participants' backgrounds.
- In the results part, the qualitative and quantitative data are not seen, which makes it very hard to read and understand this manuscript.
- The authors should add more references; there are very few.
