Dear Authors,

This is a nice study that shows the need for more interprofessional education activities among health care students in the United Arab Emirates. I would still make some changes:

- In the abstract, double-check that the percentage data shown in this part of the paper is the same as in the results section (for example, the n of female students is 75.2% in the abstract and 74.2% in results, among others). Include some statistical data from the results of the study (not just demographic data) to strengthen the paper.
- Include in the introduction a paragraph that clearly states the aim of the study.
- I would shorten a lot of the method section, particularly the study area paragraphs.
