

Review of: "Using the Socio-ecological Model to Examine Prevalence and Demographic Correlates of Alcoholic Beverage Consumption among Adolescents in Public Schools in Uganda"

Nilesh Shah

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

A very good study, highlighting the use of alcohol in adolescents in public schools in Uganda. Authors have used an appropriate method to study the use of alcohol in school children. Sample size is adequate. As expected the alcohol use was found to be more in boys and in children belonging to christian religion. The data is well presented and good discussion. Style of writing is good, and easy to read. References have been appropriately sighted.

May be considered for publication.