Review of: "Collaborative Intelligence: A scoping review of current applications"

Alessio Morganti[1]

1 Università degli Studi di Modena e Reggio Emilia

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The revision of the study on collaborative intelligences has been meticulously and comprehensively conducted. To further assist future researchers, it is advisable to provide detailed information on the specific type of artificial intelligence technology employed and any challenges encountered for each selected article. Moreover, exploring patent databases would provide valuable insights and examples to enhance the understanding of the subject matter.