Overall the study related Planetary Health is a novelty in the health sector and an interesting theme for the study. The researcher shows the emergence of planetary health.

However, the introduction section is not strong enough to explain the importance of INGOs related to planetary health. The barriers to adoption of Planetary Health mostly such as based on the opinion of the researchers. The role of INGOs to engage in Planetary Health is not clear enough. The author can include more INGOs that have a role in Planetary Health especially in low middle income countries.
