

Review of: "[Research Note] Long COVID in Mexico – Research Efforts"

Tania Janaudis-Ferreira¹

¹ McGill University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This brief communication summarizes the results of Mexican studies describing the characteristics of individuals with long COVID in Mexico. To give more transparency to the data present, I would describe the search strategy that was used to find the articles and the inclusion and exclusion criteria for the included articles. Also, which databases were used to perform the searches? In the table, I would add the year of the publication and the design of the studies. In the last column, please clarify if these are the only symptoms that were reported in the included articles or the most common symptoms.