

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Trichofolliculoma

INSERM

Source

INSERM. (1999). Orphanet: an online rare disease and orphan drug data base.

Trichofolliculoma. ORPHA:864

Trichofolliculoma is a rare benign follicular hamartoma that develops primarily on the face of adults, with a particular predilection for the back of the nose, but also on the neck or scalp. It presents as a solitary hemispheric flesh-colored nodule with a central pore or black dot that may contain a tuft of hair.