Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

1. The writing and translation process should use credible software tools such as Grammarly.
2. It would be better if a conceptual or basic concept model could be presented in the discussion explaining the framework for which this research is intended to be carried out. The existence of a conceptual model can help readers understand all the variables that will be discussed more deeply in this research.
3. Overall, the manuscript is good and clearly explains the research results obtained.
