Abstract

This study, as author claimed, is for expanding the conceptualization of neoliberalism. As such, it needs reconsideration notably when you claim that it is not defined properly.

Introduction

It seems that you have made some claims without providing adequate support. On what base did you say “underestimated so far.”?

--By academic literature, did you mean educational dimension?

---Please revise the second sentence in the introduction. It needs proofreading.

---It is also better to organize the introduction in light of different dimensions of neo and then challenge its nature.

---Also adhere to APA for in-text citation.

---If you leave out the term neo, it equals to modern liberalism. Did you mean that (see the first paragraph)?

----You noted this: “And third, I argue methodologically that the key to understanding neoliberalism lies in the interconnectedness of economic and political theory”...I assume philosophically they are related not methodologically.

--In the first part, you introduced and categorized your assertions. It needs more critical sense given the unique nature of the issue

---The movement is not based on UK and USA, as you claimed. This needs better justification.

---I expect to see better chronological report of the movements, as you proceed with in the introduction.

Conclusion

Here I have some suggestions:

It is better to change the tone of your study in to a critical and argumentative one, notable in the introduction and conclusion

And, this study is not empirical. Please recommend empirical studies. Also, add more references to each section.
