

Review of: "A Review of Informal Employment Research"

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper explores an important topic in development economics-informality. It reviews the literature on informal employment and summarizes the definition, role, and impact of informal employment, governance, rural informal employment, and women's power in informal employment. I hope the following points improve the paper's quality:

- a. The citation style used in the paper is not appropriate. Please correct. Check page 2 (Portes A & Schauffler R, 1993); page 3 (Williams C. C, 2007; Biles J. J, 2008).
- b. A systemic review with Tables is more appropriate.
- c. There should be uniform and moderate. At the present state, most paragraphs are very large. Paragraphs of 13 lines are appropriate.
- d. It is more appropriate to compare literature from developed and developing economies.
