

Review of: "Student's Well-being and Academic Performance: A Mixed-Methods Research"

Robert Hage<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> St. George's University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

In abstract: Delete 'Surprisingly, even,' and start the sentence with 'The'.

Check the manuscript for use of singular/plural and use of excessive capitalization of words.

Literature section starts with citing to articles in the text which does not flow and is odd.

Null hypothesis(HO): change the 'or' to 'and'.

In 'Research procedures' delete the word 'meticulous' and 'meticulously' and 'rigorous'.

Why capitalize 'HERE ARE TWO TABLES WITH ACADEMIC etc.'

Don't use 'we' in text and use a neutral tone.

Word differently 'Here are summarized responses'.

why do you write approximately 2.97 and approximately 0.0188 and two more while the numbers are very detailed and far from approximate.

Discussions based on experimental group section iv and viii.

the use of the word 'significant' is because it was statistically proven or used as an expression?

Control group: delete 'as expected'

In Conclusion: Unexpectedly, the control group..... delete the word 'even'.

Recommendations i: a ':' after Long-Term Effects.

Condense the Table.