

Review of: "Revisiting the challenges of ozone depletion from a prospective LCA perspective"

Weiguo Liu¹

¹ Northwest A&F University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The ozone depletion is an important environment impact category. An detailed review of current methodology for the evaluation could advance the accuracy and persuasive of LCA framework. However, this work need to expand the scope of review by include reports, environmental assessment tools, databases, presentations. The paper review the current status for accounting ozone depletion, but no possible solution was proposed for the problems, such as some GHGs have climate change effect and ozone depletion, and how to allocate the effects? And how to generalize the CFs? Moreover, The united nations environment programme should be UNEP.