Dear Editor, The article's topic is intriguing, but in my opinion, it lacks the structure typically seen in academic articles. The analyses provided are too simplistic and rely solely on descriptive statistics. The discussion section fails to compare the results with findings from other studies, which diminishes its scholarly value. Moreover, the bullet-format used in the discussion and conclusion section is inappropriate for an academic article. The conclusions drawn do not appear to be adequately supported by the results. Additionally, including the questionnaire in the main text detracts from the flow and could be better suited as a supplementary file. Considering these points, I cannot recommend publishing this article in its current form. sincerely
