

Review of: "Glycemic Control and Its Determinants Among Type 2 Diabetes Mellitus Patients at the Limbe Regional Hospital, Limbe, Southwestern Cameroon"

Oleksii Korzh¹

¹ Kharkiv National Medical University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This article abstract provides a clear overview of the study's objectives, methods, key findings, and conclusions. However, there are some minor suggestions for improvement:

1. Specify the sample size calculation method or rationale for selecting 131 participants.
2. In the discussion section, you can elaborate on the clinical implications of the study findings. How might the identified factors influencing poor glycemic control inform clinical practice and patient management?