

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Primary Erythromelalgia

National Cancer Institute

Source

National Cancer Institute. Primary Erythromelalgia. NCI Thesaurus. Code C125383.

An autosomal dominant condition caused by mutation(s) in the SCN9A gene, encoding sodium channel protein type 9 subunit alpha. It is characterized by episodes of recurrent warmth, redness, and burning sensations in the extremities.