This review article is well written and complete, and it includes the latest research on Solanum nigrum. I have checked the database of papers regarding this topic, and in my judgment, this paper provides the latest updates on research on various pharmacological activities of S. nigrum. I also consider that the inclusion of S. nigrum product formulations and patents is very important for future research considerations.

I consider this paper to be complete and worthy of proceeding to the next stage of publication.
